CONGRESSMAN MOORE'S LETTER

FRANK H. RỊVER and Charles D. BROWN-CRWN in House of Representatives, New Jerusalem to a Prophet

MARKING AN EPOCH

WASHINGTON, May 28.

FRANK H. RỊVER had a rather easy, which reminds us that when

Franklin Roosevelt was President of the United States, he was at his best. He was at his best when he was able to deal with a problem that he understood and that he could do something about. He was at his best when he was able to make decisions that were not only good but that were also in the interest of the nation. He was at his best when he was able to lead the country in the direction he believed was correct. And he was at his best when he was able to 动员 the whole country to support his program.

WASHINGTON, May 28.

Franklin Roosevelt had a rather

easy, which reminds us that when

Franklin Roosevelt was President of

the United States, he was at his

best. He was at his best when he

was able to deal with a problem

that he understood and that he could do something about. He was at his best when he was able to

make decisions that were not only

good but that were also in the interest of the nation. He was at

his best when he was able to

lead the country in the direction

he believed was correct. And he

was at his best when he was able to

动员 the whole country to

support his program.

WASHINGTON, May 28.

Franklin Roosevelt had a rather

easy, which reminds us that when

Franklin Roosevelt was President of

the United States, he was at his

best. He was at his best when he

was able to deal with a problem

that he understood and that he

could do something about. He was at

his best when he was able to

make decisions that were not only

good but that were also in the interest of the nation. He was at

his best when he was able to

lead the country in the direction

he believed was correct. And he

was at his best when he was able to

动员 the whole country to support his program.