Leisure-spiritual interests and connections provide a natural, personal way of coping and preventing burnout for health care professionals.

References